October, 1864, to the admission of British Columbia, in July, 1871 by John Hamilton Gray. Confederation: Or, the Political and Parliamentary History of Canada, from the Conference at Quebec, in October, 1864, to the Admission of British Columbia, in July, 1871. Beginning on 10 October 1864, and lasting over two weeks, the Quebec Conference was held to discuss a proposed Canadian confederation. It was in response to the shift in political ground as Britain and the United States sought to form a stronger political entity.

The delegates from Nova Scotia also admitted that the building of this new Canadian confederation was highly desirable. The Quebec Resolutions, October, 1864, laid the groundwork for the confederation, and the 72 Resolutions provided a framework for the new country.
